HIT THE BALL HARD AND OFTEN. The Spectators at Yesterday's Game Muc

Brooklyn's pitchers have not yet got into con dition and the Washingtons yesterday benefited by it. Haddock and Lovett pitched for the first time this season and as they had no speed were unmercifully hammered. Nineteen hits, including two doubles and a triple, were made before the Bridegrooms sadly made their way back to their hotels. Such an opportunity as the Senators had will not come every day and the local men did well to fatten their averages. Manager Foutz says that he will have in today a man who will not be pounded so easily-Stein. The Washingtons will put in Esper, very likely, and a much closer contest than yesterday's can be expected.

If it was never realized before it was yesterday that the Washington management had made a ten-strike in getting Charley Farrell. With him behind the bat the whole team is given a liveliness that has been sadly lacking in Washington teams. We have been accustomed to good fielding teams here, steady, plodding players, who have gone about their work as players, who have gone about their work as though they were sawing wood for their dinner. But the home team yesterday played as if they really enjoyed it. They took their places in the field after their inning on a run always an agreeable sight to those watching the game—and they moved around, backing one game—and they moved around, backing one another up, as if they took an interest in the game. It is true that yesterday was "pay day"—but perish the thought!

Owing to Farrell's quick and accurate throwing only one Brooklynite succeeded in stealing a base. They were cut off so sharply at second that after a few had died there they gave up trying. Mulvey's two errors were on diffiup trying. Mulvey's two errors were on cult chances. In one case, after juggling the ball, he threw it in time but threw wild. Maul's error was a high throw to second, trying to catch Griffin, who took third. It was costly, for Griffin afterward scored on a fly-out. The visitors' other run was in the seventh, on two doubles and a single coming in succession. Only the sharpest fielding prevented more runs

The First Day's Racing of the Second Week at Benning. Splendid weather, a fair track and the largest attendance of the meeting marked the beginning of the second week of the spring meeting of the Washington Jockey Club at the Benning track yesterday. Nineteen bookmakers did business on the local events and three on the Elizabeth and Gloucester races. Betting was more brisk than on any preceding day, and as three favorites and one second choice won the talent rather got the best of the ring. Appointator, with 120 pounds up, won the first race, for two-year-olds, demonstrating that he is about the best of his age at the track. The last race was a steeplechase over the full course, and Can Can, carrying 165 pounds, the top weight, fully justified the confidence placed in her, winning, pulling up from Return, who lasted just long enough to beat Ecarte a short head for the place.

The winners were Appomattox, 7 to 10; Poor Jonathan, 5 to 1; Lizetta, 5 to 2; Speculation, 7 to 10, and Can Can, even. The following is a summary of the day's rac-run, a three-bagger and a single.

MR. SMITH'S BOARDERS Unproductive Day in the Weather

Shoch played his first game with Brooklyn yesterday, capturing seven flies and making a AN INTIMATION THAT CHIEF CLERK SMITH MIGHT HAVE BEEN PAID TOO MUCH FOR BOARD-of board for the forecasters when temporarily ordered to duty in Washington. He said that when they first came the understanding was that they should not be paid, but this was regarded as a hardship, for it necessarily meant that they were keeping up practically two es-tablishments. Later an allowance was made for ING FORECAST OFFICIALS—WITNESSES EXAMINED BY M'LAUGHLIN—THE CHARGE OF FAVORITISM

This was not excessive, in his opinion, and of his own knowledge he knew that many of them had paid more than that out of their own

MR. JOHNSON KNEW NOTHING. Mr. E. J. Johnson, a clerk of class 1, was next placed upon the stand and at Mr. Mc-Laughlin's request the question was put: board for weather forecast officials?

Mr. Perry? Mr. Perry?

This brought the hearing to an abrupt close, and Gen. Colby remarked that the last witness had earned the gratitude of every one by his brevity. The hearing was then adjourned until Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

WHAT MR. M'LAUGHLIN WANTED TO SHOW. The first witness called to the stand was Mr H. E. Smith, the chief clerk in the weather bureau. Mr. McLaughlin acted as the examiner and started to ply the witness with questions relative to a visit on the part of some local forecast men to Washington and the alleged efforts of the witness to have one or more of them come to board with him. Mr. Perry, for Mr. Harrington, entered a protest to the form of the executions and their natural states. to the form of the questions and their purport, and Gen. Colby spent some little time in trying to find out what McLaughlin was driving at. The latter evidently had a number of written questions that he desired to put.

In answer to Mr. Perry Gen. Colby said that he had learned from Mr. McLaughlin that some of these officials went to heard with Smith and of these officials went to board with Smith and that the government was forced to pay more than a proper amount, a rebate being given, and that Mr. Harrington was cognizant of the situation. Mr. Perry objected on the ground that there was nothing said about all this in McLaughlin's letter, and Gen. Colby said he would ask them himself, with the understand-ing that the testimony might not necessarily go into the evidence, but he desired to get it all cleared up at once.

CHIEF CLERK SMITH'S TESTIMONY In answer to Gen. Colby the witness said that one of the forecast officials had boarded with him, but he refused to state what the price of board was, inasmuch as it was a private transaction and he had no reason to know that the board was paid by the government. Finally he said that he had charged a Mr. Bassler a dol-lar a day, which he considered only a fair price for transient board. There was no rebate given to Mr. Bassler nor to any of the others. Mr Smith was very emphatic about this point. He did not know whether the same allowances for expenses were made to the officials when they were staying elsewhere.

Mr. McLaughlin made a statement at this point to the effect that it was not customary for the government to pay board for the forecast officials when they remained so long a time at one post, and that this was an exceptional case provided for after they went to board with the witness. Gen. Colby objected to this on the ground that the statement was evidence, if anything, and could not be properly admitted unless McLaughlin was under oath. In cross-examination by Mr. Perry Mr. Smith said that he was in the habit of taking boarders, but they were not confined to forecast officials. As a rule, more was charged for transient than permanent board, but never had any rebate been paid; of this he was certain. WHAT MR. M'ADIE HEARD. Alexander McAdie, a clerk in the weather bureau, was asked if he was present on the occasion of an interview between McLaughlin and Mr. Harrington when the former made a protest about the matter of board, but stated that he remembered no such interview. He was asked by McLaughlin if he remembered a conversation between McLaughlin and Mr. Har-rington in which he spoke of young Townsend's past record as a protest against Townsend's re-appointment, but of this also the witness said he remembered nothing. He did not rememation, 110 (G. Taylor) 1; Plevmar, 92 (E. dibe) 2; Larchmont, 106 (A. Covington), 3. and Chief Harrington, in which the former spoke of his son as being addicted to the liquor habit, and suggested his taking the gold cure. It was a private conversation, and he paid no to 5; Larchmont, 4 and 6 to 5; George C. 20 particular attention to it at the time. Witness said that he had heard rumors against Townsend as to his being drunk at Pike's Peak, but had not heard of his neglecting his duty. He did not know what the date of this was, but thought it may have been about March.

Mr. McAdie was asked by Mr. McLaughlin if he remembered an occasion when Maj. Dun-woody found fault with the forecast work of H. H. Clayton at Boston. In answer to a question from Gen. Colby Mr. McLaughlin said that he desired to show it was a case of favoritism shown to Clayton and that it was called to the attention of Chief Harrington, but received no notice at his hands.
"You had better take the stand yourself

now," said Gen. Colby, "and give your own evidence as to these cases of so-called favorit-Gun Club has returned to the city with abund- ism, so that we can know what you are driving

"Who considered it a case of favoritism?" asked Gen. Colby, sharply. "Who said any-thing of the sort? Unless you can name one or more individuals who said anything of the sort you have no right to make any such statements. for there is no way of answering them."
"I think Mr. McAdie said it," answered Mr. McLaughlin, "but I presume he has forgotten

"You have no right to say anything of that kind in that way."
Mr. Perry then took the witness in hand and asked him if in his March letter he had made any reference to the Clayton matter. "I did."

"By name?"
"No, but by reference. "Mr. McLaughlin, in the questions you have suggested to Gen. Colby you imply that Bassler and the others drew the money from the gov-ernment to pay for their board, and that then they received a rebate from Mr. Smith. What authority have you for any such grave charges?

"I made no such charge," said the witness.
This brought about a lively colloquy between Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. Perry, in which the latter tried to get the witness to state what authority he had for making such charges, but he refused to say whom he had ever heard say that there was any reason for believing that rebates were being paid.

"Were there any other forecast officials boarding at other places?" asked Mr. Perry.
"There were." "What did they pay for board?"

"Presumably the same price."
"Then why did you lay such special stress upon the case of Mr. Smith?"
"Because I did not consider it was proper for the chief clerk of the bureau to invite officials of the bureau to board with him." Mr. McAdie was then recalled and questioned further about the Clayton and Townsend incidents, but nothing of any particular moment was brought out, either by Mr. McLaughlin or

AUDITOR VAN AUREN. Auditor Van Auken of the bureau was asked by Mr. McLaughlin about Capt. ALEXANDRIA COUNTY COURT. The county court of Alexandria county, Judge Chichester, has closed its May term after a session of one day. Scire facias was issued against the sureties of John Foster and John Nelson, now on bail under indictment for gambling at Jackson City, and who did not appear when called in court. The commissioners appointed in the condemnation case of the Washington Southern Railroad Company against Horace S. Johnson's land made a report, which was laid over until the Jun term. During the interval exceptions to the report may be filed. All the been adjourned over until the June term.

CAPTURE OF AN ESCAPED PRISONER. Nat Jackson, the chicken thief who has twice escaped from the chain gang and who lately went off with a twenty-five-pound weight attached to his leg, was captured about midnight last night by the police at Gray's barn, on the northwest edge of the city. It is a common belief among some portions of the community here that Jackson is a fowl charmer, and that he can whistle for pigeons or chirp for chickens and all within hearing will come to him. He and all within hearing will come to him. He will spend the week in Washington and will be fed on bread and water until he is will- are stopping at the Portland. ing to do a fair day's work in the chain gang.

A Lesson for Mrs. McCarthy. Mrs. Mary McCarthy lives on B street southwest and her neighbors have had reason to complain of her conduct. She was noisy and had thrown house slops out the front window, which created a nuisance calculated to spread cholera or some other disease, and this was the informally her friends at 804 E street northwest principal reason for the complaint. Policeman Bowie called to investigate the complaint yes-terday, and Mrs. McCarthy was not only boisterous, but she emptied a slop jar out of the window, and luckily for the officer he was not directly beneath the window. Mrs. McCarthy was arrested and this morning she was ar-raigned in Judge Kimball's court on charges of disorderly conduct and creating a nuisance.

On the latter charge the judge said she ought to pay a heavy penalty, but as this was her first appearance a fine of $5 was imposed in each case.

Jurors for the May Term. In Criminal Court, division No. 1, Judge McComas, this morning the petit jurors for May were called and excused till tomorrow. In Criminal Court, division No. 2, Judge Cole, the jurors were called and James J. Anderson, C. C. Turner and W. M. Barnett failed to answer. Henry Klotz, C. T. Homiller, L. J.
Butler and M. G. Copeland were excused.
In Circuit Court, division No. 1, Judge
